

117-138 AD

Persecution under Hadrian.
Many "Acts of Martyrs" date from this period.

9 Aug 117_

Already afflicted by some circulatory condition, the emperor Trajan suffered a stroke which left him partially paralyzed. On coming to Selinus in Cilicia (which was called TRAIAVO POLIS) he suddenly expired.

the body was brought to Rome.
The cremated remains placed in an urn of gold at the base of the column which bore the record of his Dacian victories

AD 117-138

HADRIAN (117-138) - Great aqueduct in Carthage brought water to the city from more than 80 kilometers from Mt. ZAGHOUAN.

The ruins still rise more than 18 meters in some places.

117 → 138

born 76 AD died 138 AD

HADRIAN

Nephew of Trajan

9 August 117

Supposed adoption of P. AELIUS
HADRIANUS (Hadrian) by TRAIAN

11 AUG 117AD

Death of TRAJAN
Accession of HADRIAN

117-138 emperor.

DURANT

PUBLIUS AELIUS HADRIANUS 76-138

Hadrian took from the father the right of life and death over his household and transferred it to the courts.

He excluded the Jews from Jerusalem.

117 AD

HADRIANUS succeeded Trajanus

Hadrian gathered about him a corps of jurists as his Privy Council, and commissioned them to replace the variable Annual edicts of the praetors with a Perpetual Edict to be observed by all future judges in Italy.

Under his successors, the work of Codification continued.

117-138

DURANT

Principal of HADRIAN

117-138 AD

Habrian emperor